My dear humanitarian friend,

You might not realize how lucky you are to be living in the United States of America, our beloved country considered to be the symbol of freedom around the world. Every year many people come to our great land to escape the tyranny and oppression of their countries' dictator regimes. Here in America, we enjoy every kind of freedom including freedom of speech, freedom of press and freedom of religion. No person is forced to believe in any idea if he or she does not choose to do so. People can choose their own religion and can have their individual relationship with their God without being scared of being persecuted. However, things are not quite the same all over the world.

On the other side of the world, in the heart of the troubled middle-east, there is an ancient country by the name of Iran in which no kind of freedom is easy to come by. People of Iran are imprisoned, tortured, mutilated, and sometimes even killed for acts as simple as wearing the "wrong" clothes, reading the "wrong" newspapers, or watching the "wrong" television programs. Young people are brutally tortured or even murdered for merely holding peaceful political demonstrations. The Iranian government is one of the few states that not only supports terrorism but also hosts training camps in which terrorists prepare and train for their next strike. The Iranian government does all of this in the name of God; in the name of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The youth in Iran have turned to drugs in huge numbers to escape the pain of this oppression. Drug addiction has reached epidemic proportions among those between ages of 14-25. Many Iranian teenage girls are being sold for prostitution so that the girls can financially support their families.

However, there is some good news to share with you. Here in America, a new 24-hour satellite television station has started its operations in order to become the voice of the Iranian youth to the world. This TV station is supporting a new movement, Iran of Tomorrow Movement (IOTM) aka "SOS Iran", in which a group of Iranian-American intellectuals and technocrats are working together to communicate to the world what Iranian people inside Iran have been unable to do to date: uncover the countless crimes that have been committed by the current Iranian regime against the Iranian people. Unfortunately, SOS Iran does not quite have the necessary budgets to perform this important mission effectively. We ask of you to help us in this endeavor and become a helping hand in freeing the people of Iran from oppression and stopping this religious terrorism.
